FROM THE SMALLEST DETAIL TO THE BIG PICTURE

FUTURE FOCUSED
This report looks back on 2015 achievements, then a quick glance towards the future.

From the smallest detail to the big picture, Child Care Aware® of Missouri remains future focused.
Last year’s report cited our key lesson of 2014 as a quote from James C. Collins’s Good to Great: “Greatness is not a function of circumstance. Greatness, as it turns out, is largely a matter of conscious choice.” Child Care Aware® of Missouri consciously chose new directions in 2014, in the face of some dramatically challenging circumstances. In 2015, those choices generated big mileage gains, as we pave a new path toward a great future!

Our streamlined, re-structured staff worked hard with the board in 2015 to enthusiastically embrace a new strategic plan and a new fund development plan. We launched into the year with some high-quality and dynamic consultation for fundraising and capacity building, which helped us secure three significant investments from new corporate partners, as well as several new board members. This partnership with outside expertise generated significant progress on our strategic priority for a high-functioning board, and on our development goal to diversify sources of revenue for less dependence on government.

Three corporations made investments for the first time in Child Care Aware® of Missouri, with two-year commitments to FERGUSON EFFEC+®. Focused on the Emotional Foundations for Early Childhood, EFFEC+® is a short-term Learning Collaborative intervention, producing positive outcomes for children within six months. Our new partners are invested in the outcome that almost 800 children in North St. Louis County will have teachers who understand the impacts of toxic stress and trauma.

Those investments can directly change these children’s life trajectories. The caring adults in their classrooms will have not only new knowledge, but will have learned, in the laboratory of their own classroom, to apply practical tools that relieve these weights in young lives. The first cohort’s results are for the 2016 report…and we can promise they are exciting!

Toward our priority for a high-functioning organization, we entered our concept for a Virtual Child Care Business Center in the YouthBridge/Skandalis Social Enterprise and Innovation Competition, where it was a winner, including a grant to support implementation. The first tier of services from this new program area is Show Me Child Care Resources, which launched in late spring. This online resource portal saves time, saves money, and increases quality at early education and care programs, and is now used by almost 250 staff at programs across the state. We look forward to reporting many more users of this enormous resource next year!

While we are laser-focused on our strategic priorities and goals, our fund development plan, and our development as an organization, we invite you to look at us from all directions and from varying depths and heights. From the 30,000-foot level, to up close and personal; from the smallest detail to the big picture, you will find us future-focused!
